The Hunted Woman James Oliver Curwood
2015-02-11 This early work by James Oliver Curwood was originally published in 1916 and we are now republishing it with a brand new introductory biography. "The Hunted Woman" is an adventurous story of a woman in peril. James Oliver 'Jim' Curwood was an American action-adventure writer and conservationist. He was born on 12th June, 1878, in Owosso, Michigan, USA. In 1900, Curwood sold his first story while working for the Detroit News-Tribune, and after this, his career in writing was made. By 1909 he had saved enough money to travel to the Canadian northwest, a trip that provided the inspiration for his wilderness adventure stories. The success of his novels afforded him the opportunity to return to the Yukon and Alaska for several months each year - allowing Curwood to write more than thirty such books. Curwood's adventure writing followed in the tradition of Jack London. Like London, Curwood set many of his works in the wilds of the Great Northwest and often used animals as lead characters (Kazan, Baree; Son of Kazan, The Grizzly King and Nomads of the North). Many of Curwood's adventure novels also feature romance as primary or secondary plot consideration. This approach gave his work broad commercial appeal and helped drive his appearance on several best-seller lists in the early 1920s. His most successful work was his 1920 novel, The River's End. The book sold more than 100,000 copies and was the fourth best-selling title of the year in the United States, according to Publisher's Weekly. He contributed to various literary and popular magazines throughout his career, and his bibliography includes more than 200 such articles, short stories and serializations. The change in his attitude toward wildlife can be best expressed by a quote he gave in The Grizzly King: that 'The greatest thrill is not to kill but to let live.' Despite this change in attitude, Curwood did not have an ultimately fruitful relationship with nature. In 1927, while on a fishing trip in Florida, Curwood was bitten on the thigh by what was believed to have been a spider and he had an immediate allergic reaction. Health problems related to the bite escalated over the next few months as an infection set in. He died soon after in his nearby home on Williams Street, on 13th August 1927. He was aged just forty-nine, and was interred in Oak Hill Cemetery (Owosso), in a family plot. Curwood's legacy lives on however, and his home of Curwood Castle is now a museum.

Contemporary American Literature John Matthews Manly 2022-09-16 In 'Contemporary American Literature,' John Matthews Manly and Edith Rickert craft a meticulous exploration of literary prowess in the burgeoning era of modern writing. This scholarly work provides both a profound bibliographic resource and study outlines that capture the essence and evolution of American literary expression. The authors navigate through the complexities of shifting cultural narratives with an astute analytical lens, furnishing readers with an erudite compilation that serves as a cornerstone to understanding the literary landscape of the period. Their treatise stands as a testament to the linguistic and thematic richness emergent in the early 20th century, nestled within the broader historical and social milieu. John Matthews Manly, a renowned figure in literary criticism, joined forces with Edith Rickert, respected for her literary acumen, to illuminate the contours of contemporary American letters. Their collaboration reflects a shared commitment to fostering a deeper appreciation of literary arts. This edition by DigiCat Publishing, conscientiously digitized, preserves the integrity of their original work while enhancing accessibility for a modern audience. Manly's academic rigor coupled with Rickert's insightful interpretations underpin their examination, making this a definitive guide to the currents of thought and style that characterized American literature of their time. For scholars and enthusiasts alike, 'Contemporary American Literature' is an indispensable addition to any collection. It provides an academic yet approachable narrative that bridges the gap between literary appreciation and critical analysis. This book is not merely a retrospection of American literary tradition; it serves as a beacon for those who aspire to delve into the intellectual confluence that shaped a nation's narratives. DigiCat's faithful reproduction in contemporary format assures that the latent wisdom within Manly and Rickert's pages will continue to inspire and inform for generations to come.

THE HUNTED WOMAN (Western Thriller)

James Oliver Curwood 2017-10-06 Joanne Gray is a young woman traveling through the wild and rough parts of the West. As the train stops for a while, she asks for a place to stay, but gets sent to Bill Quade, one of the most crooked guys in that part of the back woods. Fortunately she meets a well known writer John Aldous who becomes her guardian, ready to step up when a lady is in danger. James Oliver Curwood (1878-1927) was an American action-adventure writer and conservationist. His adventure writing followed in the tradition of Jack London. Like London, Curwood set many of his works in the wilds of the Great White North. He often took trips to the Canadian northwest which provided the inspiration for his wilderness adventure stories. At least eighteen movies have been based on or inspired by Curwood's novels and short stories.

The Ancient Highway James Oliver Curwood 2022-09-15 In 'The Ancient Highway' by James Oliver Curwood, readers are taken on an adventurous journey through the snowy Canadian wilderness. Curwood's descriptive and vivid writing style paints a beautiful picture of the harsh yet mesmerizing landscape, setting the tone for a thrilling and suspenseful plot. Filled with themes of survival, love, and loyalty, this book is a classic example of early 20th-century adventure literature, appealing to fans of Jack London and Robert Louis Stevenson. James Oliver Curwood, a true outdoorsman and nature enthusiast, drew inspiration from his own experiences in the wild to create this gripping tale. His deep connection to the natural world is evident in his detailed descriptions and heartfelt character relationships, adding an authentic touch to the narrative. I highly recommend 'The Ancient Highway' to readers who enjoy thrilling adventures set in the rugged wilderness. Curwood's masterful storytelling and his passion for nature make this book a captivating and unforgettable read.

The Hunted Woman James Oliver Curwood 2016-10-14 A tale of a great fight in the "valley of gold" for a woman. James Oliver Curwood, (June 12, 1878 - August 13, 1927), was an American novelist and conservationist. A great number of his works were turned into movies, several of which starred Nell Shipman as a brave and adventurous woman in the wilds of the north. Many films from Curwood's writings were made during his lifetime, as well as after his passing through to the 1950s. In 1988 French director Jean-Jacques Annaud used his 1916 novel, The Grizzly King to make the film The Bear. Annaud's success generated a renewed interest in Curwood's stories that resulted in five more films being produced in 1994 and 1995. My Story That I Like Best Edna Ferber, Irvin S. Cobb, Peter B. The Wolf Hunters James Oliver Curwood 2022-06-02 During the school break, two schoolmates decide to go out hunting for wolves. Their main purpose is to kill as many wolves as possible by setting traps in the woods, and then sell their skin. While on their money-making trip in the Canadian wilderness, the two boys run into a variety of problems and obstacles but an elder Indian man they meet on the way will help them with their hunt. James Oliver Curwood (1878 - 1927) was an American writer as well as an unwavering nature lover and conservationist. As such, many of Curwood's action-adventure stories were based on real events from the rugged landscapes of the American Northwest. He built himself Curwood Castle, which he used as a writing studio and as a place to greet guests. More than 150 motion pictures have been adapted to or directly inspired by his novels.

Much Ado About Peter Jean Webster 2020-10-09 The reader that would have the delightful experience of falling- in love with the Carters' serving-maid must read 'Much Ado About Peter' by Jean Webster. And, incidentally, she who would rather not fall in love with the Carters' groom had better avoid this collection of short stories about Annie O'Reilly and Peter Malone. These ten tales of life from the viewpoint of those below stairs all have the same hero and heroine, and the fact that the conclusion brings them to the usual fate of lovers gives the book the semblance of a novel. Besides Annie and Peter, the gardener Vittorio, late of the Bersaglieri Corps, who fought Menelek in Abyssinia, makes a palpable showing in a bid for the reader's sympathy. How the meek Italian gave Peter and the coachman a lesson in target shooting makes a story which will give the ordinary person a choky feeling in the region of his sentiment. There is much crisp dialogue, and a good deal of sunshiny humor throughout, and if some of the escapades related seem a little less than realistic, the wholesome preachments to which they act as vehicles are none the less pertinent and enjoyable.

Nomads of the North James Oliver Curwood 2021-05-14 Forming an unlikely, but strong friendship soon after their introductions, Neewa, a black bear cub, and Miki, a puppy, are left alone to face the harsh realities of the Canadian wilderness after tragically becoming orphans. Only able to rely on each other, Neewa and Miki travel together, embarking on an adventure as they fight for survival. As they journey together through the changing seasons, their bond grows to be more intense. Including keen, clever, and compelling observations of both the people and animals they meet, Neewa and Miki escape deadly situations, meet new friends, and witness a touching romance. James Oliver Curwood's Nomads of the North: A Story of Romance and Adventure Under the Open Stars is an engrossing action-adventure story full of emotion and surprise. Featuring strong character development and the unique perspective of two young animals, this gripping novel provides a thought-provoking view on nature and human behavior. With interesting themes and descriptive and accessible prose, Nomads of the North: A Story of Romance and Adventure Under the Open Stars is suitable for a variety of ages, and remains to be a compelling narrative even over one-hundred years after it was first published. This edition of Nomads of the North: A Story of Romance and Adventure Under the Open Stars by James Oliver Curwood now features a new, eye-catching cover design and is printed in a font that is both modern and readable. With these accommodations, this edition of Nomads of the North: A Story of Romance and Adventure Under the Open Stars crafts an accessible and pleasant reading experience for modern audiences while restoring the original beauty of James Oliver Curwood's literature.

The Black Hunter James Oliver Curwood 1926
 A rousing epic tale of adventure and romance in Quebec in the 1750's, about ladies and gentlemen, about Indians and woodsmen, pre-Revolutionary days in old Quebec and Fort William Henry, and the French & Indian War. The book begins with a 3-page list of the characters and brief sketches for each. James Oliver Curwood lived most of his life in Owosso, Michigan, where he was born on June 12, 1878. His first novel was The Courage of Captain Plum (1908) and he published one or two novels each year thereafter, until his death on August 13, 1927. Owosso residents honor his name to this day, and Curwood Castle (built in 1922) is the town's main tourist attraction. During the 1920s Curwood became one of America's best selling and most highly paid authors. This was the decade of his lasting classics The Valley of Silent Men (1920) and The Flaming Forest (1921). He and his wife Ethel were outdoors fanatics and active conservationists.

The illustrated edition enhances the reading experience by bringing Curwood's evocative settings to life through visual artistry, further immersing readers in his vivid storytelling. Recommended for those who seek a blend of action, romance, and the splendor of the great outdoors in their reading material.

The Courage of Marge O'Doone James Oliver Curwood 2012-10-01
 Many of James Oliver Curwood's action-adventure novels follow intrepid explorers who are equal parts foolish and brave as they make their way in the wilds of northern Canada. In The Courage of Marge O'Doone, a chance encounter on a train turns into the adventure of a lifetime for two audacious souls. Will the pair be able to make it back alive?

The Grizzly King James Oliver Curwood 2017-10-06
 Thor is a huge grizzly bear who lives in the Canadian Rockies. He is being hunted by Jim Langdon and his companions through forests and mountains of Canadian wilderness. During his run Thor comes across Muskwa, a motherless bear cub, and takes it under his wing. Together they make a good team, managing to hunt and feed, while being on constant run, but Jim Langdon and hunters are always close. James Oliver Curwood (1878-1927) was an American action-adventure writer and conservationist. His adventure writing followed in the tradition of Jack London. Like London, Curwood set many of his works in the wilds of the Great White North. He often took trips to the Canadian northwest which provided the inspiration for his wilderness adventure stories. At least eighteen movies have been based on or inspired by Curwood's novels and short stories. Kazan James Oliver Curwood 2006-07
 Kazan lay mute and motionless, his gray nose between his forepaws, his eyes half closed. A rock could have appeared scarcely less lifeless than he; not a muscle twitched; not a hair moved; not an eyelid quivered. Yet every drop of the wild blood in his splendid body was racing in a ferment of excitement that Kazan had never before experienced; every nerve and fiber of his wonderful muscles was tense as steel wire. Quarter-strain wolf, three-quarters "husky," he had lived the four years of his life in the wilderness. He had felt the pangs of starvation. He knew what it meant to freeze. He had listened to the wailing winds of the long Arctic night over the barrens. He had heard the thunder of the torrent and the cataract, and had cowered under the mighty crash of the storm. His throat and sides were scarred by battle, and his eyes were red with the blister of the snows. He was called Kazan, the Wild Dog, because he was a giant among his kind and as fearless, even, as the men who drove him through the perils of a frozen world.

THE HUNTED WOMAN (Western Thriller)

James Oliver Curwood 2023-11-25 James Oliver Curwood's 'The Hunted Woman' is a gripping western thriller that follows the story of a strong-willed protagonist navigating the treacherous landscape of the wild west. The novel is characterized by its fast-paced action, tense showdowns, and vivid descriptions of the rugged frontier. Curwood's writing style is both engaging and atmospheric, transporting readers to a time and place where danger lurks around every corner. 'The Hunted Woman' is a classic example of the western genre, with its focus on themes of survival, justice, and the human spirit amidst adversity. James Oliver Curwood, an avid outdoorsman and nature enthusiast, drew inspiration from his own experiences in the wilderness to craft the authentic settings and thrilling escapades found in 'The Hunted Woman.' His knowledge of the wild terrain and his love for adventure shines through in the meticulously researched details and intense storytelling. I highly recommend 'The Hunted Woman' to readers who enjoy action-packed westerns with strong, resourceful heroines and a vividly depicted frontier setting. Curwood's mastery of the genre and his ability to keep readers on the edge of their seats make this novel a must-read for fans of thrilling tales set in the untamed west.

The Hunted Woman (Annotated) James Oliver Curwood 2020-12-27 James Oliver Curwood was an early 20th century writer who lived in Michigan, where he published several novels a year. Curwood loved the outdoors and is known for his conservation efforts. This adventurous story of a woman in peril begins "It was all new - most of it singularly dramatic and even appalling to the woman who sat with the pearl-gray veil drawn closely about her face. For eighteen hours she had been a keenly attentive, wide-eyed, and partly frightened bit of humanity in this onrush of "the horde." She had heard a voice behind her speak of it as "the horde" - a deep, thick, gruff voice which she knew without looking had filtered its way through a beard." (less)

The Selected Works of James Oliver

Curwood James Oliver Curwood There are not many who will remember him as Thomas Jefferson Brown. For ten years he had been mildly ashamed of himself, and out of respect for people who were dead, and for a dozen or so who were living, he had the good taste to drop his last name. The fact that it was only Brown didn't matter. "Tack Thomas Jefferson to Brown," he said, "and you've got a name that sticks!" It had an aristocratic sound; and Thomas Jefferson, with the Brown cut off, was still aristocratic, when you came to count the red corpuscles in him. In some sort of way he was related to two dead Presidents, three dead army officers, a living college professor, and a few common people. He was legitimately born to the purple, but fate had sent him off on a curious ricochet in a game all of its own, and changed him from Thomas Jefferson Brown into just plain Thomas Jefferson without the Brown. He was one of those specimens who, when you meet them, somehow make you feel there are a few lost kings of the earth, as well as lost lambs. He was what we called a "first-sighter"—that is, you liked him the instant you looked at him. You knew without further acquaintance that he was a man whom you could trust with your money, your friendship—anything you had. He was big, with a wholesome brown face, blond hair, and gray eyes that seemed always to be laughing and twinkling, even when he was hungry. He carried about with him a load of cheerfulness so big that it was constantly spilling over on other people. There was a time when Thomas Jefferson Brown had little white cards with his name on them. That was when he went to college, and his lungs weren't so good. It was then that some big doctor told him that if he wanted to live to have grandchildren, the best thing for him to do was to "tramp it" for a time—live out of doors, sleep out of doors, do nothing but breathe fresh air and walk. That doctor was Fate, playing his game behind a pair of spectacles and a bumpy forehead. He saved Thomas Jefferson Brown, all right; but he turned him into plain Thomas Jefferson. For Thomas Jefferson Brown never got over taking his medicine. He kept on tramping. He got big and broad and happy. Somewhere, perhaps in a barn, he caught a microbe that made him dislike ordinary work. He would set to and help a farmer saw wood all day, just for company and grub; but you couldn't hire him to go into an office, or settle down to anything steady, for twenty-five dollars a day. He had a scientific name for the thing that was in him—the wanderlust bug, I think he called it; and he said it was better than the Chinese lady-bugs that the government imports to save California fruit. The nearest Thomas Jefferson ever came to going back to Thomas Jefferson Brown was when he took a job at braking on the Southern Pacific. That held him for three, days less than two weeks.
