The Great British Dream Factory Dominic Sandbrook 2015-10-01 SPECTATOR BOOKS OF THE YEAR 2015 Britain's empire has gone. Our manufacturing base is a shadow of its former self; the Royal Navy has been reduced to a skeleton. In military, diplomatic and economic terms, we no longer matter as we once did. And yet there is still one area in which we can legitimately claim superpower status: our popular culture. It is extraordinary to think that one British writer, J. K. Rowling, has sold more than 400 million books; that Doctor Who is watched in almost every developed country in the world; that James Bond has been the central character in the longest-running film series in history; that The Lord of the Rings is the second best-selling novel ever written (behind only A Tale of Two Cities); that the Beatles are still the best-selling musical group of all time; and that only Shakespeare and the Bible have sold more books than Agatha Christie. To put it simply, no country on earth, relative to its size, has contributed more to the modern imagination. This is a book about the success and the meaning of Britain's modern popular culture, from Bond and the Beatles to heavy metal and Coronation Street, from the Angry Young Men to Harry Potter, from Damien Hirst to The X Factor.

American Women Writing Fiction Mickey Pearlman 2014-10-17 American literature is no longer the refuge of the solitary hero. Like the society it mirrors, it is now a far richer, many-faceted explication of a complicated and diverse society--racially, culturally, and ethnically interwoven and at the same time fractured and fractious. Ten women writing fiction in America today--Toni Cade Bambara, Joan Didion, Louise Erdrich, Gail Godwin, Mary Gordon, Alison Lurie, Joyce Carol Oates, Jayne Anne Phillips, Susan Fromberg Schaeffer, and Mary Lee Settle--represent that geographic, ethnic, and racial diversity that is distinctively American. Their differing perspectives on literature and the American experience have produced Erdrich's stolid North Dakota plainswomen; Didion's sun-baked dreamers and screamers; the urban ethnics--Irish, Jewish, and black--of Gordon, Schaeffer, and Bambara; Oates's small-town, often violent, neurotics; Lurie's intellectual sophisticates; and the southern survivors and victims, male and female, of Phillips, Settle, and Godwin. The ten original essays in this collection focus on the traditional themes of identity, memory, family, and enclosure that pervade the fiction of these writers. The fictional women who emerge here, as these critics show, are often caught in the interwoven strands of memory, perceive literal and emotional space as entrapping, find identity elusive and frustrating, and experience the interweaving of silence, solitude, and family in complex patterns. Each essay in this collection is followed by bibliographies of works by and about the writer in question that will be invaluable resources for scholars and general readers alike. Here is a readable critical discussion of ten important contemporary novelists who have broadened the pages of American literature to reflect more clearly the people we are.

The Visioning: A Novel Susan Glaspell 2025-05-16 The Visioning by

Susan Glaspell invites readers into a richly textured world where the boundaries of reality blur with the ethereal, engaging across layers of emotional depth and psychological insight. Set against a backdrop of early 20th-century America, this profound narrative captures the essence of the human spirit's undying quest for identity and empowerment. At the heart of the tale lies a young woman navigating the tumultuous waters of her dreams and aspirations in a society that often stifles the voice of women. Through her journey, Glaspell's prose glimmers with honesty and power, making it an essential read for anyone grappling with their own sense of purpose and place in the world. Readers will find themselves enveloped in a character-driven narrative that delves into the complexities of relationships, aspirations, and the intricate threads of social themes. The protagonist's struggle to balance her artistic ambitions with the constraints imposed by society mirrors the broader conflicts experienced by women of her era. As she engages with a cast of vivid characters, each representing different facets of existence—from the supportive friend to the skeptical neighbor—her story unfolds, revealing the myriad ways in which society shapes our perceptions of self and others. Susan Glaspell's ability to weave elements of modernism and realism culminates in a potent exploration of dreams, where mystical elements blend seamlessly with the harsh truths of life. The emotional resonance of The Visioning leaves readers questioning the nature of their own dreams and the societal expectations that shape their paths. As Glaspell's narrative intricacies draw the reader deeper into the protagonist's psyche, it becomes clear that the journey toward self-discovery is both universal and profoundly personal. In this emotional tour de force, Glaspell successfully critiques cultural norms while offering a panoramic view of the role of women in literature during her time. By the end of the journey, readers are left with an enduring sense of hope and recognition that empowerment is an evolving process, one filled with visions that lead us toward our truest selves. The Visioning is more than just a novel; it is an exploration of identity, a celebration of artistic ambition, and a poignant reminder of the power of visionary thinking in transforming lives. This captivating novel resonates with anyone who has ever dared to dream, inspiring them to pursue their own visions with fervor and passion.
